Golf & Greens:

The golf course maintenance staff has been busy the last several weeks. Our main focus has been working on mowing equipment to prepare for the upcoming season. Many hours are spent sharpening reels, changing bearings and belts, and making general repairs to our equipment. We hope this preventative maintenance results in less down time during the growing season and ultimately, better playing conditions during the golf season.

We recently began working to remove more of the old asphalt cart path to be replaced with concrete. We made great progress the last two years on this project and we intend to continue to work on replacing the asphalt and damaged areas of concrete as the weather allows this winter and spring. We also plan to replace the sidewalks at the clubhouse. Again, we owe a big “Thank You” to Dennis Tune for his generous contribution to this project.

The construction of our new turf maintenance facility is nearing completion. We are very excited about our upcoming move. The building is finished, electrical work is complete and we are waiting on our gas hook up so we can heat the area. This is such a tremendous upgrade for our operation. Not only will it make our operation more efficient but will help with recruitment and retention of quality employees. We are so thankful to the membership and Board for this investment. I want to thank Tim Cotton and NWA Electric for all their work getting power installed in the building. I also want to thank Matt Britt for all his hard work in making this happen.

In the next few weeks, we will begin our spring pre-emergent weed applications and then soon after, it will be time for our spring greens aerification. We have March 8th penciled in as our aerification date. It is hard to believe, but spring is almost here. Hopefully, the mild temperatures continue and we keep getting some good days for golf. We will see you on the course soon.

Brandon Nichols, Golf Course Superintendent

Chef's Cravings:

Winter comes and goes fast around here. It is my favorite season but this year was a little different. I am actually looking forward to spring and some warmer weather. Besides it getting busier here with more members coming out to play and more events, I am now a homeowner. Seeing the trees and plants bloom around my house and neighborhood will be exciting.

Thanks to everyone who tried our Asian Steamed Buns special these last few weeks. I was excited to put those out and they were a success. I always enjoy making Asian cuisine, although I have no formal Asian training, I know enough to get by with a few things. Formal Asian training meaning I have never worked for an Asian restaurant, but I have learned a lot from fellow chefs I know who are familiar with that type of food. I will be changing out some of the menu items in the next week, so keep an eye out for that. I will also have a few keto friendly, gluten free, etc. options on there and will make notations next to those items so you are aware. If I were to put mashed cauliflower on the menu, I assume most would be open to that. It is that time of year where we are watching what we eat, so we can get our beach bods back.

I look forward to seeing more of you as the weather gets warmer. Stay safe and healthy!
~ Chef Levi Zindl
